

LOOKING at the NEWS with Col. Hugh Clark

To tell the United States it would pay them to cancel war debts is ineffectual. The only nation that recognized the logic of the thing and acted upon it is Great Britain.

The latest machine is one which shuffles and deals cards. The claim is made that it saves time and eliminates misdeals. Now, who wants a machine of that sort? Speed and efficiency are surely not desiderata in a game intended for pleasure and relaxation. Some little discussion after each game, commonly called an inquest is not unprofitable, nor is the slight manual exercise of shuffling and dealing. In poker, perhaps, this mechanical contrivance may have its place, for did not the late President Taft once tell at a banquet in London of two men (kibitzers) watching a poker game in a western town, when one whispered to the other, "Did you see that fellow deal himself five aces?" And the other replied, "Well, what of it? It was his deal."

One effect of the depression is that it has removed some of that prejudice that used to exist against tainted money.

The last thing we want, says De Valera, is to stir up old hatreds. Still he finds it hard to forgive the Sasenach for what Cromwell did three hundred years ago.

When on a lecture tour in the United States, Miss MacPhail, M.P., declared prohibition in that country to be an utter and complete hypocrisy, but we have no doubt that we could get an utter and complete denial of the charge from hundreds of people who never were in the United States.

The lady M.P., by the way, has allowed her name to appear as a director of an oil company which is trying to sell its stock in the usual flamboyant style which we thought had gone out of fashion in 1929. Members of parliament should not allow their names to be used in any such capacity, but the public should also avoid being influenced by it. An M.P. is quite as likely as anyone else to be taken in by promoters, and there are reasons why they should endeavor to have an M.P. on the Board, one reason being, of course, that it will help the sale of stock to the public and especially to the constituents of the member-director. It would not have that effect, however, if the public only knew what 'easy marks' members of parliament often are. We doubt if any other body of men was so hard hit by the slump in the stock market?

A woman writes a New York newspaper asking why debts retain their full value while bonds and other securities shrink. There are creditors, and debtors too, all over the world who can tell her that she is in luck if debts owing her retain their full value, and her creditors are in luck if debts owing by her are of the same

SPARE RULE AMENDED

At a recently held executive meeting of the Vulcan Curling Club, the spare rule was amended to read: "That a skip may obtain spare curlers of equal rank as absentees and may play the spare in any position desired." This is a desirable and welcome amendment in the curling circles.

VULCAN CURLERS LOSE

Vulcan curlers accompanying the Elks hockey team and Vulcan band to Lethbridge, on Wednesday last, were defeated by only one point and the inter-club visit proved interestingly contested. The Lethbridge Herald says:

All games were keenly contested and Vulcan is credited now with having some curlers as well as some hockey team. Lethbridge will bet the visit shortly.

The scores:

After two years of inactivity the Reid Hill U.F.A. local re-organized at an annual meeting held at the community hall on Wednesday, January 4th. A good attendance was recorded and much enthusiasm was evident. The executive officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: J. Munson, president; Gordon McKay, vice-president; R. D. Edgington secretary-treasurer; E. R. Kuykenall; N. T. Dewitt, D. J. Ross, Gordon McKay, William Gardiner, were appointed as directors.

Fourteen paid-up members were secured and a large number signified their intention of joining later. It was decided that monthly business meetings for the remaining winter months will be held on the first Wednesday afternoon of each month and in addition to these meetings, a monthly social evening will be held on the third Wednesday of each month at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Cards, dancing and other entertainment will be in order on these occasions.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS E E McINTOSH

Former Vulcan Lady Whose Death Occurred Suddenly at Antigonish

The sad intelligence was received here this week of the death of Mrs. E. E. McIntosh at her home in Antigonish, N.S., and many intimate friends in Vulcan are mourning her demise. Mr. McIntosh conducted a general store here for several years and they left for Antigonish two years ago where they have resided since. The following from "The Casket" Antigonish, dated Dec. 22, makes reference to her death:

Mrs. Edward E. MacIntosh died at her home on Pleasant Street, Antigonish, last Friday afternoon, after an illness of only an hour or so. She had been in her usual health during the day, and the news of her unexpected demise was a shock to the many friends of the family. A lady of many fine qualities of head and heart, Mrs. MacIntosh, was greatly esteemed in the community. The last rites of the church were administered by Father MacKinnon. The funeral took place Monday morning with interment in St. Ninian's cemetery, after requiem mass at the Cathedral by Rev. J. R. MacDonald, P.P.

Deceased was a daughter of the late Capt. Angus and Mrs. MacDonald, Antigonish, and was 55 years of age. About 20 years ago she moved to Alberta with her husband who carried on a general mercantile business in the West till about two years ago when they returned to Antigonish. She is survived by her husband and four sisters.

Up in the Glassy Ridge there is heavy rivalry over the growing of vegetables. This led to the following situation on New Year's between neighbors: "Dad, would like to borrow your saw to cut up a cabbage." "Go back and tell him I'm sorry, but my saw is stuck fast in a potato."

LOCAL ITEMS

Reid Hill U.F.A. local are holding a social evening on Wednesday, January 18 at 7:30 o'clock in the Reid Hill community hall. A short program will be given with dancing, cards and games to follow. Admission free. Anything in the line of "feats" will be greatly appreciated. Everybody welcome.

The Vulcan dance orchestra have received many bookings since organizing and have played at many district points as well as town engagements and success is assured for the group. One of their future engagements includes the basketball girls dance at Lomond on Friday, January 20th.

The Advocate has been asked to warn motorists in the district of danger of driving with poor lights or with only one light burning. Another bad habit is the parking of cars and trucks on public roads without proper parking lights. A heavy penalty goes with both offences, so it would be well for car and truck owners to co-operate with the public and officials in this matter.

One of the largest crowds of dancers ever to assemble in the Alston community hall were present at the free dance on Friday evening last at the conclusion of the annual meeting held at the same time. Everybody certainly enjoyed the fun and frolic, and music was supplied by three orchestras playing in relay. Officers elected at the annual meeting were John Jensen, president; Dick Clements, vice-president; A. Wannop, secretary-treasurer; Wm. Bowie, Mrs. D. H. Galbraith, Ed. Beingsner, O. Summers and Wm. Isaacson are directors for the year.

The interesting sports chatter column in the Lethbridge Herald has the following praise of Vulcan for the recent journey of last week: "Hats off to the town of Vulcan. They don't do things by halves. Just imagine, if you can, this place declaring a half-holiday, sending many, many carloads of hockey fans, four curling rinks, a brass band and a hockey team to Vulcan on a Wednesday afternoon. Such support should see a hockey team through and it would be a wonder indeed if they did not dish up a good brand of hockey. Mind you, we're not kicking on the support the hockey moguls received on Wednesday evening. It was splendid, but we ask you again, can you imagine this city giving the same support to its hockey team that Vulcan gives theirs?" Bravo! Well written words and Vulcan is certainly proud to support such a hockey machine as the Elks' have produced this season.

Elks Win at Claresholm and Lethbridge; Tie High River

Record Crowds Supporting Team; Played at Claresholm Wednesday Evening

Support that the Vulcan Elks' hockey team are receiving this season must be as indeed gratifying to the players as the brand of fast hockey they are in return giving to the fans.

Over 150 fans journeyed with the team and the band to Lethbridge on Wednesday of last week and were delightfully pleased with the hockey displayed. Vulcan brought home a 5-1 victory over the Kinsmen of Lethbridge. Lerouche, Norton, Ferguson, B. Marshall and A. Marshall tallied one counter each for the locals and Dawson made the only Kinsmen tally. The Vulcanites were finished in their performance around the opponents goal and excelled in this region. Play on centre ice was even and Lethbridge have no slow team. The 1200 fans attending the game were amazed at the smooth working forward line of A. Marshall, B. Marshall and "Duke" Ferguson for the Elks and much comment was given by the daily papers on the 'kid' forward line.

The Line-up

Lethbridge—Goal, Wright; defence Wilson and Horne; forwards, Slovinski, Bruchet, Reynolds, Draffin, Malone and Dawson.

Vulcan—Goal, Love; defence, Monkman and Kaiser; forwards, A. Marshall, Ferguson, B. Marshall, Thomas, Robson, Norton and Lerouche.

High River 4—Vulcan 4

One of the best games of hockey ever played at the local arena was witnessed by a gallery second only to that of the capacity Christmas assembly, on Friday evening last, when High River divided points with the Elks' in an over-time game, 4-4.

The contest was thrilling and the crowd went wild when Allan Marshall scored the balancing counter in (Continued on the Back Page)

CHARLES CLARK, Proprietor

ENEMIES OF PEACE

Another startling indictment of world armament makers, written by Lt. Col. George Drew, appears in January 1 Maclean's. It is Col. Drew's contention that the real menace to peace lies with the armament makers. "Disarm the armament makers, take the profit out of war, or peace is doomed," he says.

The writer recalls Briand's ominous words "Articles against peace are written with pens made of the same steel as cannon and balls."

To give point to these words, he quotes from articles appearing in "Liberty" magazine, calculated to impress on readers the imminent peril of Japan's intentions, and the need for more armaments. Quoting the writer, he says "Can America beat Japan single-handed? My deep conviction is that she certainly can and will."

This, says Col. Drew, smacks of the jingoistic militarism of Von Bismarck. It affords a graphic illustration of how the press may induce a frame of mind that will see the need for ever greater armaments.

"Armament firms have sought to influence public opinion, through the control of newspapers in their own and foreign countries. The campaigns for armament ordinarily occur—as this one is occurring today—when private business is entering a period of depression."

The writer quotes the finding of a League of Nations Commission, made up of military experts and civilians from all over the world. This was (1) that armament firms have been active in fomenting war scares and persuading the adoption of war-like policies; (2) that they have attempted to bribe government officials; (3) have spread false reports of military programs in various countries; (4) have used newspapers as an influence on public opinion; (5) have organized international armament rings, and trusts to increase the prices to the government."

Evidently according to the writer, the menace to world safety lies in the fact that war means profit. Colonel Drew's revelations regarding Vickers Ltd. of England and kindred enterprises in other lands, are sufficient to lay bare the insidious methods by which individuals, even governments are hoaxed into wars which are brought about solely to enrich the stockholders in armament companies.

Mrs. O'Brien had a habit of "putting her foot in it" whenever she opened her mouth. Across the way lived Mrs. Flannigan whose husband one morning committed suicide by hanging himself in the attic. A few days later Mrs. O'Brien was going over to see her. Her husband said, "You'd better not go, you're sure to say something to hurt her." "No, I won't" said Mrs. O'Brien. "I'll talk about nothing but the weather." So she went. "Good morning, Mrs. Flannigan—lovely weather we're having." "Yes, and it's glad I am so I can get my clothes dry," said Mrs. Flannigan. "Now, you're the one that should be worrying about the weather when you wash; you with your great big attic to hang things in."

SWAP IN MIDSTREAM

A recent news item says "Premier Brownlee, none too eager to go on the tariff board." This brings into the open, the rumor circulating for some time in the province, that Mr. Brownlee will resign as Premier, and join up in Ottawa. The rumor has roused some apprehension throughout the province, and the statement that he is none too eager offers some hope, that he will not desert Edmonton at this critical time.

After piloting the government through the troubles of the past three years, there is little doubt that the Premier might look upon an appointment to the tariff board as a post less obviously arduous at least. It would not offer the infinity of worries, to which any Provincial premier is at present subjected. On the other hand, there must be some reluctance to leave his task of Premiership with so much unfinished business, so many uncompleted problems. It is possible that his loyalty to and interest in this province, overweighs any other considerations. It is to be hoped so.

There is no doubt that Premier Brownlee's ability is recognized throughout the Dominion, and he would not have to go far in looking for positions, possibly more inviting than the one he now holds.

On the other hand, his ability has also received every recognition in this province where he gained his first training in public life. There may be many voters who do not conform to U.F.A. principles or have any particular liking for a U.F.A. government. But there are few indeed who do not speak with respect and admiration of Premier Brownlee. The province as a whole, has paid him the gratifying tribute of confidence on many occasions. The present grave difficulties offer him a great challenge and a great opportunity. There is probably no other province with such rich resources and such possibilities of future development. If he can carry us through safely to the bright future, he will have made an undying name for himself in the history of the province. If he quits at the present juncture, the move will be like leaving an unfinished task.

The question rises in the minds of everyone: "Who would take his place?" Various names are connected with possible leadership, names of U.F.A. leaders, and those of other parties. Any or all may be admirable men, but they have not had Mr. Brownlee's experience, his intimate knowledge of all the responsibilities and decisions of premiership. It would take the cleverest man some time to adjust himself to the position and familiarize himself with every detail, with which the present Premier is thoroughly acquainted. This is no time for a change in such an important office, if a change can be avoided.

Mr. Brownlee's steady influence has done more to return the U.F.A. to power than any one other element. His sanity of thought has curbed irrational demands, and he has been able to direct the minds of his own supporters without antagonizing them. It is this quality and this influence which have recommended themselves to many of opposing beliefs. There is very general hope that Mr. Brownlee will stay with the ship.

MESSAGE OF HOPE PREMIER BENNETT

The call went out New Year's Day to all Canadians with capital to turn their money toward productive use in this country. It came from Prime Minister R. B. Bennett in his 1933 message.

"Our ears are deafened by the advocates of monetary nostrums; but there are also a few old-fashioned prejudices," Prime Minister Bennett declared. "One of the latter is the notion that money or wealth can be separated from enterprise and cloistered in safekeeping away from the call of industrial needs."

"If industry fails in your country, your wealth, savings, insurance and investments will melt like snow before your eyes. It is not unnatural that those possessing wealth should have put it aside while a precipitate decline in prices was in progress. That downward movement having now been definitely arrested and an upward trend being in evidence, it behoves all those who have capital available to turn it as far as possible to productive use."

Canada was in the best position of any country in the world to take advantage of a return to enduring prosperity. And once again, the prime minister told his country and the world: "Canada will pay her own debts according to the letter of her contracts."

"The price of primary products and especially agricultural products is today the most difficult world problem. These prices throughout the world are the lowest in history. We have reason for believing that prices will shortly improve."

"We have maintained a sound money position in Canada. We have paid all our maturing obligations abroad. This country, it cannot be too often emphasized, has all to lose and nothing to gain by renunciation of debts, however burdensome their payment may be."

"A short-sighted policy would mean something for the present, but if we are conscious of the trust reposed in us—10,000,000 people—of developing the greatest and richest resources available to any country in the world, we must realize that money will seek investment in Canada because of confidence in our sound monetary system. Credit is the means by which our resources can be developed and the fullest advantage taken of mining and world markets."

GOLD IS GOLD BUT U S DOLLAR BETTER

Strange Experience of American Citizen With Money in Vancouver

American gold is as good as gold in Canada, but American paper cash is much better.

A citizen of the United States, visiting a bank here, learned that he would have been wiser to fill his pockets with bills before leaving home, instead of loading them down with gold pieces. It would have saved him a lot of money.

He walked into the bank and laid on the counter some American banknotes, some silver dollars, and some $5 gold pieces.

For every dollar bill, he got $1.19 in Canadian money. For every dollar in silver he got $1.08. For every dollar in gold he got a dollar in Canadian currency—just that and nothing more.

He protested what he termed the discrimination against gold in favor of paper, but the banker explained: "Your gold pieces are worth no more to us than Canadian gold pieces of the same face value. We will give $5 in Canadian bills for a $5 Canadian gold piece, and we can give no more for an American gold piece of the same amount."

But I thought you were paying a premium on gold?

On raw gold from the mines, replied the banker.

And by the way, added the banker, you will have to leave the gold here now, because it is illegal to take gold out of Canada without a government license.

The saddest blow of all will come when the American returns to his own country. That's when he will feel the loss. For every $5 gold piece he brought into Canada, he got $5 in Canadian paper money. When he exchanges that for American money he will get considerably less than $5—the discount rates being as they are.

On Dec. 29, Donald Wm. Boyce, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boyce of Nanton, died at the age of three years. 27 TRACTORS BACK ON THEIR HANDS

Interesting Farm Story Comes From Local Visitors to Acme, Alberta

While at Acme, they picked up an interesting story on the way, in which a group of farmers combined to handle a situation with a tractor company.

There were twenty-seven farmers concerned in the arrangement. Each of them had in good times bought a tractor. Each had made payments as long as it was possible, and had averaged payments of $900.00 on each tractor. This year, however, the company was pressing for further payments which were out of the question. The twenty-seven farmers got together, pledged to stand as a unit on any deal. They notified the company officials that they were ready to talk business, and on a day arranged, they cleaned up their 27 tractors and delivered them all at the hall where the meeting was to be held. Their demand to the officials was an even trade. The company could take back the tractors, in return for all their notes. After some parleying in which the farmers stood firmly together, the company bowed to the inevitable, gave the farmers back their papers and took back the 27 tractors.

Now this company has 27 used tractors on its hands which should be picked up cheaply.

quality. Perhaps the U.S. treasury could give her information that even where debts are owed by nations their value depends upon ability and willingness to pay.

There is a movement on foot in the interest of economy to unite the three prairie provinces. That looks well on the face of it, but how account for the fact that Prince Edward Island the smallest of the provinces, is in a better financial position than any other?

A Standard Oil official recommends a change in the make-up of financial statements. He surely would not suggest that they be made so plain that the average shareholder could understand them?

TECHNOCRAT TELLS POWER REVOLUTION

Adjustment of Workers to Wonders Of Machine Age

Professor Rautenstrauch of Columbia University, is one of the heads of the new message of Technocracy.

What Technocracy has in mind is a single economic program for the North American continent, which would solve the dislocation of employment, due to machinery.

At an Association of Scientists held in Atlantic City, technocrats gathered recently. They envisioned a future in which the workman would have ten times his 1929 earning capacity, and yet work only four hours a day, four days a week. This they think can be accomplished if the present price system were discarded, if energy were used instead of gold as a medium of exchange, and if senseless over-production for private gain were stopped.

The power of revolution began about 200 years ago, he said, in simple machines for use in home spinning and in mines. That event raised man out of a condition that had existed unchanged for 6,000 years in which "the physical basis of civilization in any continental area resided in man himself."

Charts were exhibited to illustrate this power revolution. They showed, Professor Rautenstrauch said, "for example in 1904 approximately 1,300 man hours were required to build the average automobile—today only 90 man hours are required."

"We are inclined to believe that our studies show industrial planning for the future must be quite different than that which existed in past times."

The modern power plant offers the model which technocracy thinks may be adopted for future business planning, he said in conclusion.

The machine age has benefited civilization far more than it has harmed it and unemployment mainly reflects failure to adjust workers to its progress, said Professor Dugald C. Jackson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Boy Scouts in Gleichen [did great work in collecting food, clothing and supplies for the needy during Christmas season.

Gleichen is enjoying the added comfort of the new rink. Besides, it removes the chances for a free show, making a better gate.

Smith and Brown were making their first trip across the ocean. Smith soon found his sea legs, but Brown was less fortunate, and was forced to retire to his cabin. After a while Smith burst in upon him. "Come on," he shouted, "there's something I want to show you." Brown groaned. "What—what is it?" he asked. "It's a most wonderful sailing ship," said Smith. "I don't want to see a ship," Brown returned. "Call me when you see a tree."

Reigned New Year's Day

QUEEN OF PASADENA'S TOURNAMENT OF ROSES

Blonde, blue-eyed Dorothy Edwards reigned New Year's Day as Queen of Pasadena's annual tournament of roses. A student at Pasadena Junior College, she was selected from among 11 other girls, who acted as her attendants. The picturesque parade of blossom-covered floats which once a year winds through the California city's streets is world famous.

U. F. A. CONFERENCE

At the three-day caucus of United Farmer legislators held last week in Edmonton, the business dealt with mainly was debt adjustment and wheat.

Those present were the U.F.A. executive, the Federal Progressive members and the members of the provincial legislature. President Robert Gardiner was the only official unable to be present.

A large part of the time was taken up in the discussion of agricultural problems.

Believing that the Canadian wheat situation is one of Canada's major problems, the conference placed itself on record as follows:

(1) That in order to place the Canadian wheat exporter in a position to compete in the world markets immediate steps should be taken to bring the Canadian dollar to a closer parity in international exchange with the money of our chief competitors.

(2) That the governments of the three prairie provinces should confer with the Dominion government as to the desirability of the formation of a national wheat marketing board.

(3) That Canada should explore the possibilities of bartering wheat for the products of wheat consuming countries and that to this end representatives of Canada, having this aim in mind, should be placed in such countries.

(4) A request for a conference of the chief exporting countries to consider the whole wheat problem was introduced.

(5) It was felt that the Dominion government, acting in conjunction with the governments of the three prairie provinces, should consider setting up an authoritative body to survey the whole problem of wheat production and marketing. In this connection, it was felt that a body of outstanding men facing this problem much the same as the railway problem was faced might be of very great assistance to the government.

Extension of the Debt Adjustment Act with a view to providing greater protection for debt-harassed farmers and home owners was approved at the U.F.A. caucus.

The understanding is that new debt adjustment legislation will be introduced by the government at the forthcoming session of the legislature.

Other matters discussed included subjects that may be considered at the coming conference at Ottawa, such as unemployment insurance, the medical necessities of certain rural districts, as well as the unemployed in the urban areas, automobile licenses and gasoline tax.

A number of matters all concerning the welfare of the U.F.A. movement were brought before the meeting, including suggestions for facilitating business at the annual convention.

WHAT OF RUSSIAN REVOLUTION?

Will it be Found to Have Influenced World More Profoundly Than French Revolution

In an interesting address given a short time ago, Mr. White of High River, chose as his subject, the eventual international influence of the Russian Revolution. In his choice of topic, he used as his basis, an address which he had heard on the same subject by the French representative to Canada who had spent several years in diplomatic service in Russia.

The original speaker made the following statement: "Fifty years from now this world will be influenced more by the effect of the Russian Revolution than it ever was by the French Revolution of 1789."

"The big question today," said Mr. White "is whether or not the Russian Revolution will mark the downfall of the capitalistic system and the inauguration of communism."

Communism while not a new thing in itself, probably presents something new in the Russian communistic system of government. Never before has a country of 160 million attempted such a scheme. And its ultimate success or failure is bound to have a profound influence on social political and economic structure.

The Hutterites and Doukhobours colonies in our own country are an example on a small scale of the workings of a communistic system.

The ideal of communism as used in Russia is a political order in which every individual is a joint owner or a co-benefactor in the natural resources and national welfare.

Russia and U.S. Extremes While Russia is our only example of communistic government, United States is perhaps the extreme of the capitalistic form of government.

The two systems cannot live side by side in these extremes, and the world question is how they are going to be re-formed in order that they may exist side by side without conflict.

Regardless of the ultimate success or failure of the Russian plan, its principles are immeasurably important to humanity, because the key-stone of Russian communism is to project itself into all capitalistic countries of the world. A good policy might be to be radical enough to examine all things; Liberal enough to try that which appears to be good, and Conservative enough to hold fast that which has proved to be good.

Vital Differences

In our civilization, home life is the unit, and family ties are binding. In Russia, the family life is flexible and family ties of secondary concern. We hold an exalted view of marriage. The Russian State cultivates a material and temporary attitude toward marriage, with marriage and divorce $1.00 a try. Home life is subversive to state; homeless children are under state control.

The Russian aim for an enlightened society by universal education would be very admirable, but it is used as a vehicle for inculcating the political principles of the creed. There is no room for acceptance or rejection. The propaganda fosters hatred of capitalistic countries, and such education is illiberal.

Russia in frenzy and fanaticism exults in atheism. Freedom of conscience and belief, and freedom to proclaim these beliefs, are lacking in Russia. This freedom one is convinced is an attribute of our enlightened civilization.

It would appear to most of us that little good could come from these aspects of the Russian system. But there is the economic side. The great object of Russia of today is to produce. Mechanized industries are being pushed on a wholesale scale, in order to produce enough goods to supply the needs of all. The object is that all may have plenty, while none will have any great excess. So far, the goods produced have fallen far below demand.

Our Own System

On the other hand, observe our own system; industries highly mechanized; production of food, clothing and comforts of life, in abundance. Never in history has production had greater potential capacity, yet we have millions in want and misery, our factories closed; our granaries full of grain, and people starving for want of it. If production were cut down, more men would be out of work, with buying power even more reduced.

Perhaps the greatest danger to our system lies in the condition of mind which this unemployment breeds, with a greater susceptibility to communistic doctrine. Unless some kind of reform can be presented, communism is likely to be forced upon us. When multi-millionaires condemn it in the press, it is only one more

IS SOMETHING IN THIS VIEWPOINT

Amongst the most interesting columns of the newspapers, are the communications and letters from readers. These often register a new viewpoint not to be found elsewhere.

A letter published in the Red Deer Advocate claims that it is the working man's envelope which is of more importance to the seller of farm products, than the purchases of the luxury loving wealthy. Here he says it:

"One of the principal causes of the difficulties of the farmers is because there are far too many working men with no pay envelope at all. Let us look into the home of a 'pay envelope' man when the bread-winner is working, and you will find in his pantry large quantities of bread, meats, milk, butter, eggs, etc.; and then look into the home of our wealthy financiers and you will find them nibbling grapefruit, oranges, pineapple, and other foreign dainties, even their liquid refreshments come from the vineyards of France. The whole tendency of modern finance is to get their own interests bolstered up at the expense of the common people, and both farmers and 'pay envelope' men are today suffering from that tendency."

"Amongst items affected by the new Economic agreements one finds boots and shoes, cotton sheets and wool piece goods very little reduced. The high tariff created in 1931, has boosted for it in the eyes of suffering humanity. And the ultimate result is that all will have to suffer alike."

Adjustment of working hours may be one solution. One of man's primary instincts is acquisitiveness and this at maximum is hard to control. State control is frowned on because most men look on the State as something it is legitimate to cheat, and until such attitude can be educated out of people's minds, it is impossible for anything to succeed under State control.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

We will all start the year by being good technoc rats.

Roland Newsom of Nanton was appointed a cabinet minister at the Alberta Boys' Parliament held in Calgary.

A Viking farmer sold a 32 pound turkey gobbler this Christmas. The folks should have at least one meal of cold turkey.

Imagine the courage of the U.S. pickpockets. Not content with lifting Harry Lauder's roll, they picked $50 off our own Agnes McPhail. Not a member of the House at Ottawa would have been so brave.

A Scottish patient called upon Dr. ... very anxious about his state of health. "What would you say if I told you you were a very healthy man," said the doctor after examination. "In that case, I'd say this was just a friendly visit," said the patient reaching for his hat.

been scarcely altered. But linen tablecloths, linen pillow cases and axminster carpets have been submitted to a very heavy cut.

"A very small reduction on the first three items which are absolute necessities of the people. Then carpets and fine linen, being requirements of the wealthy, get substantial reductions by the Conference."

"Another item I might mention. I bought a small gasoline engine, 3 or 4 years ago, to pump water, etc.; price $54, now catalogued at $74.50. Would anyone suggest that a single dollar of that increase went into a 'pay envelope'? Wages are much lower than they were, and still all the machinery repairs that I have bought recently are higher."

"The most pressing duty before both farmers and 'pay envelope' men is to recognize their enemies and stick together when they get the opportunity. Possibly the punishment is now getting severe enough that they will soon do so."

Yours sincerely,
—Thomas Smith

WEEK'S HOCKEY GAMES

the third period with but three minutes to go after High River had climbed into a two goal lead. Bob Marshall scored the other counter that helped make the tie. The former was made on an assist from B. Marshall and the latter on an assist from "Duke" Ferguson.

In the first period, Marshall from Malmberg, counted for High River, while Thomas from Norton brought Vulcan even. Ferguson scored first for Vulcan in the second, and just before the gong the teams were level once more, Murray netting on a pass from Blundun, in the third the visitors stepped two ahead, Blundun and Clark from Murray, doing the trick. Then came the brilliant playing of the star forward line of the Foothills league to tie the score.

In the overtime the tie remained unbroken with both teams working hard for a win.

High River—Mainland, Robertson, Tigner and Peterson; Murray, Blundun, Clark, Twiss, Malmberg, and Marshall.

Vulcan—Love; Monkman, Kaiser, and Simpson; A. Marshall, Ferguson, B. Marshall, Larouche, Norton and Thomas.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

There is something honest and candid about a man who smells of onions. This year will stand out in history as the turkey Christmas. And now for a good old beefsteak.

Every day we are coming closer to the Garden of Eden, with nothing to wear and in constant fear of being turned out.

A man in a Calgary police court was proved to be drunk because he dropped a copper in the fire alarm box, looked up at the Hudson Bay clock and was overheard to say: "This is terrible. I've lost 14 pounds."

Probably after all, we are fit only for slavery. Otherwise why do we permit a club bag to sell for $65.00, when it only requires about one third of a hide in the making. And a whole hide brings the farmer about 35 cents.

Maintaining A Long-Established Position in Canadian Banking

When the Dominion of Canada was established in 1867, the Bank of Montreal, then already half a century old, had nearly a fourth of the total paid-up banking capital of Quebec and Ontario, and more than a fourth of the banking assets of those two provinces.

Today it has the same proportion of the capital and assets of the banking structure of the entire Dominion.

Today, as yesterday, it employs its resources and facilities for the upbuilding of the soundest elements of Canadian business.
